

Practical 3

Janco Spies, u21434159

August 28, 2022

Task 2

- 2.1 A way to handle this situation using procedural programming is to have the function return null and then make the client check if the returned pointer is null before proceeding.
- 2.2 A way to handle this situation using an object-oriented approach is to add a new class that represents a blank object similar to the constant "NaN" for number variables. This class will then be created and returned to the client.

2.4

